

Vampire facials, 'Loub Jobs' & other wonderfully weird beauty treatments

We explore 5 of the strangest, yet surprisingly effective treatments modern aesthetic medicine has to offer!

What is it? It's a rejuvenating facial that includes your own blood cells as one of the special 'ingredients'. A Dermapen (see above) is used to create micro holes in the skin, which are deep enough to cause bleeding. This blood, along with a mix of serums, is then applied to the skin to be reabsorbed.
