

Remember Renée Zellweger's Transformation? It Can Be Done Without Surgery

Remember when Renée Zellweger popped into the lime light and no one recognised her? Well, a medical doctor with a special interest in aesthetic and anti-ageing medicine at Skin Renewal in Johannesburg believes that Zellweger's 'transformation' is a prime example of how change to prominent features of a person's face can change the entire face, even to the point that the person is almost unrecognisable. The doctor's name is Dr. Xen Ludick and he goes on, saying,

"Her eyes, checks and jawline have definitely been altered. If I were a betting man, I would put money on cheek fillers, a surgical bleph, which is eyelid surgery that removes excess skin and fat, as well as jawline reshaping."

To read the full article visit: Non-surgical Facelift!