

Third Fraxel Dual Laser... Done and dusted

May 19, 2016

For those of you keeping up with my Fraxel Dual Laser Journey, which I am doing to help get rid of pigmentation on my face, I have the third installment and some thoughts for you today.

If you're afraid to try Fraxel Laser and feel nervous about the pain, don't be! It's important to point out that the pain is really only prominent as the laser passes your skin. Afterwards, you just feel flushed and not really "in pain". During the Fraxel Laser, one of the therapists assists Dr Lawn, and uses the machine's cooling pipe to reduce the sensation of the heat, and it helps a lot!

I am really happy with the results so far! I still have pigmentation, which is more of an outline now, than horrible uneven patches on my face, but I often forget how bad it was before my first Fraxel Dual!
